BETWEEN ART AND SCIENCE: THE NARRATIVE OF THE COSMOS

On the occasion of the Thirtieth Anniversary of Fondazione Golinelli

CENTRO ARTI E SCIENZE GOLINELLI
VIA PAOLO NANNI COSTA 14, BOLOGNA

Traditionally, man has always placed the part of mystery that could not be solved on earth in heaven. What is the part of mystery that is still shrouded in heaven? And again: man has always entrusted the cosmos and its constellations with what he loved most, affections, hopes, love for his dear ones who are no longer there. Is there still a place for an affective dimension of the cosmos in the current scientific situation, when so many secrets are unveiled, following space travels and explorations?

The study of the Cosmos, with the development of astrophysics on the one hand and the discoveries of research in the field of particle physics on the other, have recently led to a reconciliation between the paradigms of the infinitely large and the infinitely small, today opening up convergent research tracks, towards a synthesis, heading to an ever growing understanding of the universe and its origins.

Two keynote speakers have been invited for this event: Alvaro De Rujula, theoretical physicist of CERN, Geneva and Sergio Bertolucci, extraordinary professor of Experimental Physics of the Department of Physics and Astronomy, Alma Mater Studiorum Università di Bologna.
